Da Rumor Mill

What up doe! Hot tea spilled on da street has steam heatin’ up things in the D.

When it comes to heat, rapper Gunna has allegedly been receiving a lot of heat for pleading guilty to a racketeering conspiracy charge. Peeps that include Tekashi 6ix9ine have reportedly called him a snitch for snitching on Yung Thug and entering an Alford plea. Gunna was sentenced to five years with one year served in prison. The four-year sentence left will reportedly be “suspended” and Gunna will serve the rest in the form of 500 hours of community service. “While I have agreed to always be truthful, I want to make it perfectly clear that I have NOT made any statements, have NOT been interviewed, have NOT cooperated, have NOT agreed to testify or be a witness for or against any party in the case and have absolutely NO intention of being involved in the trial process in any way,” Gunna told WSB-TV in a statement. I can’t blame him. I’ll snitch too to get an get out of jail card. And I ain’t the only one.

Gunna ain’t the only snitch. Cash Gotti is reportedly telling the world about rapper BIA getting evicted. He accused her of reneging on rent. Gotti reportedly said that she even brought a dude up in his friend’s house, and they both turned out to be squatters. “Her and her man was staying at my man’s crib in Hollywood,” Gotti said on the Choose What The Future Brings podcast. “Penthouse - cost $6,500 a month, you feel me? I guess homie was already living there for like six months or whatever. He was doing his thing, paying his money or whatever. Nobody knew she was living with this n-gga. This n-gga stopped paying rent for like two and a half months.” He continued, “My man’s call me like, ‘This n-gga in my crib not tryna leave, not tryna pay the rent. And he talking on gangsta timing.’ Who gets tough with their landlord? Like, ‘I ain’t going nowhere, you gon’ have to drag me out’ - that type of sh-t. Shorty and her man got evicted; had to get out of there. They were supposed to vacate the premises. Next day, I’m getting a whole bunch of calls. ‘Why is n-ggas saying you robbed this girl?’ Long story short, she is running around with my name in her mouth talking like oh, I did all types of different things when you weren’t paying your rent.” Dang...He didn’t even serve her with an eviction notice. He did it hood style - kicked her and her man to the curb. She betta pawn some of those shoes that cost a whole lot of money and get a studio apartment in the hood.

Speaking of legal problems, Tory Lanez (aka Daystar Peterson) was found guilty last month of assault with a semiautomatic firearm, having a loaded unregistered firearm in a vehicle and discharging a firearm with gross negligence. Rapper Megan Thee Stallion was shot in the foot during the incident. He is now facing more than 22 years in prison. Lanez reportedly hired 81-year-old David Kenner and Matthew Barhoma, who are Snoop Dogg’s former criminal attorney and helped the rapper to beat a murder charge. His sentencing has reportedly been pushed back to Feb. 28 due to an issue with his wristband being “too loose”. His former attorney George Mgdiesyan and Shawn Holley, his original defense lawyer, missed the trial due to a conflict. “We look forward to litigating the motion for new trial,” Kenner told reporters after the hearing. “We are very confident.” And I’m confident that bro will serve time. He can’t escape proof.

And, on that note we’re outta here. We don’t wanna catch a case because we can’t afford to pay Kenner.

Peace out!

Trendsetting hip hop star and the only female member of the mega group Three 6 Mafia has reportedly died at the age of 43.

Her labelmate DJ Paul confirmed her death on Sunday, Jan. 1.

Born Lola Chantrelle Mitchell in Memphis, Tennessee, Mitchell counted among the female pioneers in the heavily male dominated genre.

In the 1990s, Mitchell teamed with DJ Paul, Juicy J, Lord Infamous, Crunchy Black, Koopsta Knicca and others to form Three 6 Mafia.

She helped the group form an identity that resonated throughout the world with records “Mystic Stylez,” “Chapter 1,” and “Choice.”

Mitchell later teamed with artists like OutKast, Eminem, Foxy Brown, and Lil Jon.

After leaving Three 6 Mafia, Mitchell released her first solo album, “Enquiring Minds,” in 1998.

The disc reached No. 15 on the Billboard Top R&B/Hip-Hop Albums chart and number 46 on the Billboard 200, with the hit song “Where Dem Dollars At!?”

In 2001, she released her second album, “Both Worlds *69,” reaching the 29 on the Billboard 200.

Though her third studio album, “Enquiring Minds II: The Soap Opera,” failed to achieve the same success as her previous releases, the record did reach No. 24 on the Independent Albums chart. In 2015 Mitchell released the mixtape, “Candy, Diamond & Pills,” which catapulted her to the forefront of the underground hip-hop scene.

She then toured with Killer Mike and El-P, playing sold-out shows across the United States on their “Run The World Tour.”

Following the tour, Mitchell set the music world on fire with an epic Verzuz battle in which she reunited with Three 6 Mafia to battle Bone Thugs-n-Harmony. “Rest In Peace To Legendary Female Rapper Gangsta Boo From Memphis Tenn,” Tweeted famed DJ Mister Cee.

“She was one of the female rappers from the South that set the trends for so many others to come after her. This is a huge loss for Memphis.”

Singer K. Michelle also joined a long list of artists, fans, and others to pay tribute.

“You already know what it is,” K. Michelle tweeted. “We forever. Broke my whole heart today sis. I love you.”
